

Reuter Insight

September 2012

Overage Dependent (student status)

With a new school year upon us, it is important to ensure that student status has been updated as required by the various insurers. If your plan extends coverage beyond the standard termination age for dependent children who are in full-time attendance in an educational institute, it will be necessary to provide this information to your insurance carrier. Since insurers will have different requirements for the frequency and format of the submission of this information, it is recommended that you confirm the requirements with respect to overage dependents and notify your insurer of any changes in student status.